philosophy

As an experienced business owner, academic, homeowner, and parent, I strive to create environmentally responsible spaces that reflect the way families live and businesses operate in the modern world. Whether in a city, suburb, or rural environment, the project's surroundings as well as its history become influential in the design process. With care, our houses, offices, and other "home-like" buildings serve as our outermost layer of clothing, providing comfort and function within while allowing us to best relate to the outside world.
